Interaction cancelled

IIT-Dharwad students were disappointed as they had to miss a planned interaction with Mr. Javadekar, Mr. Siddaramaiah and others. Some 120 students were waiting for the event.

Mr. Javadekar, who arrived more than two hours behind schedule was apparently disappointed when he saw the small number of students. He said he wanted to interact with a larger crowd at the inaugural and left. Later, at the inauguration ceremony, the large number of students including those from different schools and colleges had gathered, Mr. Javadekar announced that he could not go ahead with the interaction session as the available time was inadequate. However, he told the students that he would visit the IIT transit campus in the near future.

Javadekar to Meet IIM Directors Next Month

New Delhi: Issues related to quality of management education, exploring avenues for financing and improving global perception of Indian institutions are likely to come up for discussion when HRD minister Prakash Javadekar meets directors of IIMs next month.
The meeting comes at a time when the HRD ministry is working on formulating a New Education Policy (NEP), officials said.
"The HRD minister will be meeting Directors of various IIMs soon and it is expected that a range of issues from quality of education to building best infrastructure will be discussed," a senior official told PTI.
Officials said Javadekar will also meet heads of other higher educational institutions which are financed by the Union government in the coming days.
"It has been planned that in the coming days the minister would be interacting with various Vice Chancellors of Central Universities, NITs, Indian Institutes of Science Education and Research (IISERs) etc," the official added.
Javadekar had recently presided over the IIT council meeting where directors of these premier educational institutions were present.
"There are a range of issues from quality, affordability, global standings to making education affordable and accessible. It is expected that these sessions will be brainstorming sessions and new ideas will emanate," officials said.
