National Technology Day

11 May

- The National Technology Day celebrations highlighted a surge in entrepreneurship spirit to develop cost effective indigenous technologies that offered solutions necessary in Indian context.

Awards are given to several innovators and entrepreneurs on this day every year.

The day is a significant milestone in the history of India's technological innovations as India successfully tested nuclear bombs in Pokhran on May 11, 1998 and is commemorated every year by honouring the architects of such innovations.

National Technology Day is much more than the anniversary of a historical event. Like technology itself, it is a pathway to the future. Today we celebrate the achievements of some of our best scientists and innovators, and their success in shaping technology into usable, commercial products and processes that change the lives of people.
